Turbosmart Add UK Master Distributor

Turbosmart, a company renowned for its quality performance products, has added a UK Master Distributor to its worldwide distribution network.

Through some careful research, Turbosmart International Sales Manager, Bradley Raffin in consultation with CEO Nicholas Cooper selected Dorset-based turbocharger company, Turbo Dynamics to become Turbosmart's second UK Master Distributor. Turbo Dynamics (TD) was selected over a number of companies because of its strength and position in the marketplace.

Amongst TD's accolades are accreditation to ISO quality standard, a large trade customer base that covers all makes of vehicles, renowned in-house technical knowledge and customer service, and an established infrastructure along with streamlined systems to easily cope with the national distribution.

Since its foundation in 1991, Turbo Dynamics has been a leading force in hybrid turbocharger development with the racing and performance sector being a large part of its core business. TD's links with the whole racing fraternity - from drifters to professional racing teams, circuit racers to rally crews, privateer hill-climb and sprinters to drag racers and current F1 teams - is well known and it is expected that the Turbosmart products will be well received.

Delighted to have the company recognised for its qualities and selected by Turbosmart as a UK Master Distributor, Turbo Dynamics Managing Director, Peter Marsh said

Where Quality Is Without Compromise

"Turbosmart's product range aligns perfectly with the performance side of our business. Their quality is what our customers would expect and we are pleased to be able to provide a 'one-stop shop' when it comes to boost control."

The company has confirmed that it now has a full range of Turbosmart performance products in stock, such as external wastegates, blow-off valves, electronic boost controllers, boost solenoids, adjustable fuel pressure regulators and other fuel system parts.

TD will shortly be sending its top dealers copies of the Turbosmart catalogue and price list together with other promotional material. An e-commerce solution will soon be available allowing trade customers to order stock online as well as registering to receive electronic updates on every new release; Turbosmart is a very proactive company, continually developing and improving their products, with regular new releases.

The TD Sales Team are reportedly eager to begin selling the popular parts to their customers and following this, the company's dealers will be able to offer the vast range of products to their own customers. Turbo Dynamics' dealers span the globe, but the company will be contacting its UK big-sellers in the first stage.

Very happy with his choice in distributor and looking forward to what the future holds, Bradley Raffin said "Turbosmart looks forward to developing a strong business relationship with Turbo Dynamics, we are certain that they will only compliment our already established distribution network in the United Kingdom. Turbo Dynamics' location and customer base will allow further expansion of Turbosmart's product range in the marketplace."
